

Dear FCC:

Request amendment of the Commission's rules in regards to retaining the Morse code proficiency as a requirement in Amateur Radio. It is still the most dependable and simplest forms of communications that I know. Anyone can sit down and memorize a book and successfully pass an examination but the morse code in the amateur radio examination presents a challenge in the proficiency of mastering another language form. Request that the Commission consider increasing the code proficiency speed when upgrading to a higher class of amateur radio license. Commission may want to consider morse code examination as a challenge to the entrance into the amateur radio service.

Thankyou
